

Covello Submits Plans At Ex Board Meeting For Change In Rules

Also Considers Meeting At Noon Instead Of Night

Concert Series Fund Proposed For Student Entertainment

That all plans for the betterment of the student government of San Jose State College must be made with the welfare of the public in mind as well as the welfare of the students themselves, was the statement of President T.W. MacQuarrie made at the beginning of a special Executive Board meeting held at President MacQuarrie's office Wednesday night for the purpose of making plans for a "New Deal" in student government.

Covello Submits Plans

A new plan was submitted by Frank Covello, President of the Associated Students, which was taken into consideration along with suggestions made by President MacQuarrie and those of the other members who attended.

Despite the fact that nothing was definitely planned and probably won't be until all the suggestions have been analyzed and carefully considered from all angles, many excellent ideas were brought up.

Concert Series Proposed

Suggestions were brought forth concerning a lecture and concert series fund that would bring noted lecturers and outside famed concerts to the school throughout the quarter, offering many opportunities to the students that at the present time are unavailable. The holding of executive board meetings during the noon period instead of in the evening to offer an opportunity for students who live out of town to attend was also considered by the group.

New Government Considered

However, the outstanding discussion of the evening centered about the consideration of a new form of student government that would either consist of a representation of students from all departments receiving a budget or representatives elected at large by the student body was the important topic. It either plan an executive board of seven students and a faculty adviser would consist of: a President, Vice-President, Secretary, Student Affairs Chairman, Public Exercise Chairman, Health Cottage Representative, Athletic Representative, and a faculty member; or students less on the executive board than there are at the present time. This plan proposes to allow the executive board a larger chance to work for efficiency, it being a smaller group. Whether or not a new name would be used for the student body such as: "Campus Incorporated" or "Spartan Incorporated" or whether the present name of "Associated Students of San Jose State College" would be maintained would be decided at a later date.

As nothing was definitely decided, the meeting was adjourned with the intention of holding another special meeting in the near future, at which time old and new plans will be brought up and discussed.

Because of the absence on the A Cappella Choir tour of many of the school's best musicians, there will be no Mutual Half Hour today.

No announcement of the plans for next week has been made as yet.

SOPHS WILL SPONSOR DANCE

This afternoon is the big afternoon! Will you be there? No? Well, then change your mind right away and decide to come. Where? Don't be silly. At the Sophomore Dance, of course. It's to be held over in the women's gym and there's going to be a lot of peppy music by Sam Ziegler's orchestra. You've heard it and you know it's plenty good.

Committee of two

A committee of two, President Bill Moore and John Longinotti, vice-president of the class, made plans for the affair with the cooperation and sanction of the class members. It promises to be an afternoon well spent. Stress is being made on the fact that stags will be welcomed. As we so well know they are barred from most of our dances. As an exception to this rule the Sophomores will welcome both boys and girls who come alone. You'll find the price won't break you either. A dime, ten cents, a tenth part of a dollar.

Posters on Campus

Posters have been scattered at various points of the campus announcing the time and place—you get the girl! Watch the bulletin boards and you won't forget.

Instead of the usual cotillion which the class presents during the winter quarter, the afternoon dance was decided upon and if it is a success a date is open for an evening dance to be given later in the quarter. So, if you will all come and support the Sophomore Dance there will be an evening affair to look forward to in the near future.

Technical Staff For Hedda Gabler Has Wisdom As Leader

"Hedda Gabler", famous Ibsen tragedy, will be put on the Little Theatre stage on February 28, March first, and March second, according to the plans of Hugh Gillis, director of the play.

"It is, of course, a very unfortunate situation for our own play," said Mr. Gillis concerning the Eve le Gallienne performance coming to San Jose on February 26, "but it is most fortunate for San Jose theatre-goers."

In putting on the performance in the regular first rate manner, Mr. Gillis has selected Dave Wisdom to head the stage crew. Wilbur Davis and Dean Cowger will assist Dave in the capacity of stage manager.

Kenneth Addicott is to be electrician for the production. He had had considerable experience at Stanford University in stage electrical work.

Frank Hamilton is handling all publicity for the play. Frank has not worked on publicity in San Jose before, but his usual conscientiousness will see to it that "Hedda" receives sufficient publicity.

Bertha Potts is to act as property manager. Elizabeth Allampress is to be promoter during performances. As costume mistress Jean McCrae will take care of all apparel for the actors.

Kathryn Smith will be in charge of make-up of the cast. Marian Faltersack will head the usher-committee.

All sets for the production are designed by Hugh Gillis in the Little Theatre workshop. Members of the stage-craft class help to make the sets.

Retouching, Painting Of Campus Rooms Are C.W.A. Project

For the past two months much has been said and printed in regards to the C.W.A. work being done on the campus. Probably not the largest project undertaken by the C.W.A., but one of great importance is the retouching and painting of the rooms in the various buildings.

Having completed the repainting of the majority of the rooms in the Home Making and Art buildings, the painters for the past two weeks have been retouching various rooms in the main building.

Painting started in the main building when the painters retouched Dean Dimmick's office; other rooms that have been retouched are: 114, 120, 110, 107, 111, and 113. At the present time the Registrar's office is being repainted and Miss Viola Palmer, of the Registrar's personnel, is the representative in the Personnel Office, which for the time being is being used for the Registrar's Office also.

Mel McDonald's Orchestra To Provide Music For Dance

Stoll And Grimsley Chairmen Of Committee In Charge

Last after-game dance of the quarter and first barn dance here in two years, the Barn Dance in the women's gym Saturday night after the game with Fresno is all set to be a big event of the season. The attendance at the other after-game dances this quarter has testified to their popularity, and this, the last one, is to be a super-number.

Informality is the central idea. Elmer Stoll and Jim Grimsley, co-chairmen of the committee in charge, hope that those who come will not dress up. If convenient, cords, jeans, or gingham will be quite appropriate. Decorations feature hay, wagons, and other barny equipment.

The light will be furnished entirely by farm lanterns hung from the ceiling.

Mel McDonald's orchestra will furnish the dance rhythms from 9:30 to 12. George Meyers will perform some harmonica solos as intermission numbers, right in the spirit of a barn dance. There will be a couple of acrobatic dancing numbers also, featuring Mary and Jewel Brown.

Student body members may bring an outside guest. Admission for those owning student body cards and for their guests will be ten cents. According to Dr. MacQuarrie's ruling, there will be no stags.

The other members of the committee are: Wilbur Davis, Clyde Fake, George Majors, Ronald Olds, Merritt Metcalf, Emil Roberts, Joe Long, Melvin McDonald, Michael Angelo, and Bob Leslie. Mrs. Holsholt and students in the art department are responsible for the posters for dance publicity.

Spartan Senate To Hold Discussion Of Charter This Noon

Pros and cons of the suggested county charter will be discussed thoroughly at a meeting to be held in the Little Theatre Friday at twelve o'clock sharp, Ronald Linn, president of Spartan Senate, announced today.

Interesting speakers from public offices will discuss the affirmative and negative sides of the question in a very informal debate style. The affirmative speaker will have fifteen minutes in which to advance his case, the negative will talk for twenty-five minutes and the affirmative will have ten minutes for rebuttal.

According to reports, many of the students are intensely interested in the political policy of the country. They should find these talks intensely interesting.

Spartan Senate, honor debate fraternity of the campus, is sponsoring the talks.

Roosevelt Junior High Alumni To Hold Reunion

SPARTAN SPORTS

By Bertrand & Conroy

All About the Frosh.

This week-end our flashy hoop stars steps into the limelight for the last time this season. Ten straight victories are accredited to the yearling outfit, and providing the unforeseen doesn't occur, the list should remain intact on and up to the closing game.

The proficiencies of our first year boys are not to be disputed if scores and victories are significant, and undoubtedly there should be a wealth of material among them to bolster up Coach McDonald's 1935 list of defenders—we hope.

Such men as Daly, Crawford, Waddington, Hudson, Pease, Bettencourt, Welsh, and others will demand consideration. Barney Swartzell was one of the outstanding men on the squad until he was forced from the ranks because of various existing circumstances.

Show Conference Class.

Wednesday afternoon the yearlings very nearly proved themselves would-be Far Western Conference champions when they ran the varsity a close contest in which they were finally downed by one puny basket. Not bad for the fresh team, eh what?

A Cheer for Coach Elliot.

And we must place credit where the same is due by acclaiming Coach Bob Elliot as one of San Jose's youngest coaches, and a student withal. Bob has turned in a splendid piece of work, realized the wealth of material he possessed and made the best of it. We don't believe any member of our coaching staff could have done a much superior piece of work.

We Apologize to Harry.

Some things can not be helped, Harry, they just were predestined or maybe you don't go for that stuff—but if it will make you feel any better, place you in a more favorable psychological state, or act as balm for your persecuted soul, we publicly apologize for any superfluous and uncomplimentary comments aimed at your worthy person that might be printed in any part of this paper in the past, present, or future.

Weather permitting, varsity track coach Erwin Blesh will send his track candidates through their second session of time trials this afternoon.

During last Friday's trials Ed Lynch, late of Sacramento Junior College, turned in the outstanding performance of the day by winning the two-mile in the fast early season time of 10:47.3.

Comparing Lou Salvato's running of this year to just a year ago at this pre-season date, the Spartan track captain and holder of the Far Western Conference title in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes, is in fine shape. Taking a third place in the first time trials is quite an exceptional feat for Salvato.

Doug Taylor appears to have regained all of his last year's broad jumping ability covering over 22 feet in his first workout.

Officials Always Blamed

We have often felt indignant ourselves, making scathing remarks concerning the tactics employed by an official, but seldom consider the position he is in. He sees much that we do not, as often the spectators eye follows nothing but the ball. However, we sometimes see things that the officials do not. In either case it is simply too bad for the official.

SPARTANS OPEN FRESNO CAGE SERIES TONIGHT

College Times Sports

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1934

Fresno Tilts To Have No Effect On Conference

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the local pavilion, the San Jose State Spartans quintet opens its two game non-conference basketball series with Fresno State College.

These will be the final games on the local court, the Spartans bowing out of the local basketball picture with the final gun of tomorrow night's Fresno game.

Due to their inactivity along basketball lines this year the strength of the Fresno Bulldogs remains unknown. Unless they have been playing outside basketball together, which is quite likely, the Fresno men that take the floor to-night against the Spartans will be playing together in their first game of the year.

Such names as Rambo, Secrist, and Franke, men that were largely responsible for trimming the Spartans twice during last year's basketball campaign, are not listed on the Fresno State eligibility list received by Graduate Manager Webster Benton last week.

Practically "in" as 1933-34 Far Western Conference champions, Coach H. C. McDonald's charges enter the Fresno series top heavy favorites.

Showing signs of improvement since their defeat last Friday at the hands of Leon Jacob's Clothiers, the Spartans should display a bit of the classy basketball that brought them out on top of 5 conference games in 6 starts.

Taking their last severe workout Wednesday afternoon the Spartans scrimmaged Bob Elliot's Frosh quintet. Although their defensive play appeared to be a little below par, the varsity managed to sift through the yearling defense to out-point their younger brothers by a four or five baskets.

Big Carl Biddle will undoubtedly get the starting call tonight at the pivot position. The man mountain has been giving fine accounts of himself during practice, his remarkable basket-shooting inside the foul line will be a needed asset to the Spartans tonight and tomorrow.

Paul Rea who alternates with Biddle at the center post has completely recovered from his slight attack of "flu" and should see plenty of action in both games.

Sparta's three outstanding forwards, Holmberg, Concannon, and Downs continue their desperate fight for first string forward positions, which by the way started many weeks ago during early season games. It seems to be the inevitable triangle (not at all the movies), and the three men have alternated at the apex position.

This week "Shoe" Holmberg, who is considered by many to be the best all-around basketball on the local squad, appears to have an option on the apex.

With Holmberg slated for one starting post, Concannon and Downs have been battling to team up with him.

Downs, having craved seventeen points in the Spartans' last game, stands out as the likely man to answer the opening whistle.

Rated as the smartest of the forwards, Bart Concannon will be on hand to step into the fray if either Holmberg or Downs fail to deliver. Although Concannon has been having difficulty hitting the basket of late he is a good "feeder" and is capable of playing either forward position.

Having four guards, Captain Hank Leibbrandt, Hubbard, Taylor, and Arnerich, all of equal ability, McDonald faces his toughest assignment in selecting his starters for the back court positions.

As far as taking the ball off the back-

STATE NINE IN CONTEST WITH IRVINGTON BALL CLUB

Saturday, a composite team of Irvington Reds, Centerville Merchants, and Washington All Stars, will engage State in a game of pill punishing and apple throwing known all over our fair land as baseball.

Joe Blacow who organized the team from his last year's "Reds" and this year's probable prospects promises a fast moving game inasmuch as these fellows know what it's all about.

For those of you who are interested in seeing a baseball classic (since both teams know each other pretty well, and will be out to show each other up) we urge you to come out to the Washington Park on Willow Street. There will be no charge and there are plenty of good seats.

Bill Hubbard's charges after a week of hard practice (their first of the season) will be in the best of shape so far this year and promise to come out on top. Still the Irvington team has several prospective big leaguers and have been playing together as a unit thru the winter and this will be in their favor.

Ray Bettencourt, former St. Mary's tackle, is managing the "Farmers" and such sluggers as Ed Rose, Warren Robinson, and George Dundas will keep the Spartan tossers in plenty of trouble if they live up to their ability.

On the other hand, if Pura, Blethen, Bishop, McLachlan and the "One and Only" Harry (He refuses to be called "Goat") Hardiman smack the slants of George Medeiros, who knows?

The Spartans have plenty of potential possibilities and when they do arrive they will be here with a loud report. The probable starting lineup is as follows:

McLachlan, c; Horstman, p; Hardiman, lb.; Hague or Atkinson, 2b.; Main or Thurber, ss.; Filice 3b.; Blethen, B.; Pura cf.; and Bishop, rf.

Frosh Hoopsters Final Games Scheduled This Week-end

This week-end the frosh basketball team will close a very successful season. They will play two preliminaries this week-end to the Fresno-Spartan series. On Friday night they will play Pacific Grove. On Saturday night they will play Morgan Hill. Of Pacific Grove very little is known outside of the fact that the bay schools usually put out some pretty good teams.

Morgan Hill will probably be the toughest team of the two. This is the home school of one of our renowned athletes namely Ducoty who has been prominent in various intra-mural activities at our local institution besides being one of the mainstays on the Junior A basketball team; Duke also played on the frosh basketball team which established such a good record in 1932.

Rube Woods is the coach at Morgan Hill. He is an alumnus of San Jose High School and while he was there he was very prominent in athletics, particularly basketball. He still is a basketball player of ability. Woods' teams have a very good reputation in the Valley League which is the local Santa Clara Valley high school league.

board, Laury Arnerich can stand up to any of the other three. Arnerich possesses a sharp eye from any part of the floor, and if he starts hitting them, he is liable to steal the show.

Pool Records Shattered As Stanford Swamps Local Mermen; Score 66-27

Setting new pool records in every event which they won, the Stanford University swimming team defeated the Spartan mermen in the local pool Wednesday night by a score of 66-27. Handicapped by the loss of Ambrose in the sprints, who has suffered a recurrence of a spine injury received in high school, the locals managed to salvage only two first places out of ten events.

One of these firsts was scored by Kinsley in diving. His execution, remarkably improved since his first appearance against San Jose High two weeks ago, was easily the outstanding of the competing boardmen. Having fine control, poise, and entry, his work earned him the plaudits of the crowd time after time.

The other first place for the locals was taken by Harold Houser in the 100 yard breast stroke, when he managed to nose out Foster of the Indians in one of the best races of the evening.

The loss of Ambrose was compensated for by the wonderful showing of Fitzgerald in the 100 and 220. Swimming against a pair of very good men, Godman and Van Saltza, Fitzgerald put up a great battle to force Godman to finish in the fast time of 57.7 seconds, taking second place himself.

Clark, captain of the Stanford team, covered himself with glory by clipping 16 seconds off the pool record in the 150 yard medley swim. Being National intercollegiate recordholder for the 400 yard distance in this event, his feat is not particularly astounding, however.

Summary:

200 yard relay—Won by team of Graves, Van Saltza, Danforth, Dean, (S). Second, team of Smith, Blasel, Sherwin, Tuxford (S.J.). Time 1:46.1.

HASH

(It is understood that this column is written with no forethought.)

Since the college has gone definitely "highbrow" in its choice of reading matter in the Times, I don't know whether to dish out the same old "Hash" to my loyal customers, or to change to something snooty, like caviar. I could then rave in this fashion, "Will you indulge in a 'Thomas and Jerome' at my expense (Have a 'Tom 'n Jerry' on me); 'Observe the illuminated vegetation,' (Look at the Christmas trees); 'You can be obtained,' etc.

No hamburger on me or on anybody else is forthcoming this week. My sensitive feelings have been deeply injured, and I heartily agree with the individual who proposed that we adopt a five day weekend—and the other two to recuperate.

First of all, that printer I told you about a while ago has expressed (poetically again) a desire to burn up my beloved Hash—and me with it. On top of that, nobody caught on to the clever abbreviations that appeared in Hank's limerick last time. You weren't smart enough to see that "Ky" stood for "Kentucky", and that "ly" and "dy" consequently stood for "lucky" and "ducky". But why explain?

Just to show that I wasn't blowing off steam, I'm reproducing some of that nasty poem the bad printer wrote:

SENTIMENTS OF "THAT'S ME"

"If all the features in the Times
Were stacked up in a row,
I'd like to light them with a match
And watch the blamed things go.

"Maybe I will have my way
If everything goes well—
If not for so-called 'journalists'
Why do they have a 'Hell'?"

And this is some of my answer—a greatly condensed version was dispatched to the print shop via the proof sheets.

SENTIMENTS OF "THAT'S I"

If all the printers that we know
Were here for us to slug
We'd sent them to their rightful home
Which hasn't yet been dug.

And the reason why they have a "hell"
Is very clear to me;
It's reserved for crooks and villains
And for poets like "That's me".

—That's I.

Hash House Hank advises you to get your La Torre picture taken in a hurry. You can make an appointment by skipping over to the La Torre office and requesting same, or just go directly to the Pavley studio and tell the man you came to be shot. He will gladly do so.

SPEAKING OF SPEECH

Shades of Ibsen! What an opportunity for those of us who follow the theater. Two entirely different productions of Hedda Gabler in one week—and both of unusual merit!

On the twenty-sixth of February, Eva le Gallienne brings her company here. Critics have acclaimed this interpretation as new and unusually human. Probably this is due to the more liberal translation used.

Two days later the San Jose State production starts its brief run. Hedda Gabler is only one of a list of superior plays offered by the college during the year. It certainly is not the least important. Headed by experienced players, the rest of the cast makes up in enthusiasm what it lacks in experience (Not always a successful substitution). However, many a new hand has emerged from six weeks of rehearsals a bit less green and a bit more polished.

It is a tough break for the college cast, le Gallienne's coming, but they can take it. Their only regrets are that they will not be able to see the professional performance.

Tuesday night the Play-reading Club read two one-act plays in room 151. Although handicapped by its infancy, the group gave a worth while performance.

This group, if you will show your interest in it, will give you some fine things in the future. Play-reading itself is one of the least honored, but most honorable arts, and the writer looks forward to the time when it shall be duly recognized by San Jose State students.

The Play-reading Club is one of the newest of the really worth while things the Speech department is offering you.

Just Among Ourselves

Note—This column is personal between the president and the college. Outsiders are requested not to make use of the material.

There comes a time in the affairs of men when it is just as well to have a look at ourselves and our creatures. Human relations build themselves up, become more and more complicated from year to year until finally a complete reorganization is the only way out.

Student body officers met with me last evening for an informal consideration of our student organization. The years have gradually built up for us a fearful and wonderful system, more complicated, in fact, than that of many a large city. Such a development is not uncommon, rather it is to be expected, but there always comes a time when we must return to fundamentals. We're at that point now.

I, personally, have never been able to understand our whole system, and I find it difficult after a rather interested study. We have so many boards and so many organizations, and so many misnamed committees that about the only solution I can find for our difficulty is a change, and a very much simplified organization. I am inclined to say that we should have a central executive committee which would represent and carry out the wishes of the student body. There should then be a board in charge of all activities which receive funds from the student fees. The executive committee should be the budgeting committee, the finance committee, and in fact the whole committee which has to do with the central organization. Budgets should be requested each spring by the organizations, should be considered by the executive committee, and should be assigned to those organizations. When they are assigned, and under the conditions imposed, they should then be expended by those organizations through the controller who would make frequent reports to the executive committee.

It seems to me that only by some such arrangement can we ever hope to understand our condition at any time. I suggested to the committee that in view of the fact that it was necessary for me to recommend and justify at Sacramento all fees to be charged, I would reserve the right of veto any financial arangement made by the executive committee. I doubt if an out and out veto would ever be necessary, as I am of the opinion that any executive committee would be just as much interested in the welfare of the college and of the students as I am, and our minds would very likely be the same on any important point. If they were not, a fair discussion of the situation would, I am sure, result in a compromise which would be satisfactory to all concerned. It would be necessary for this executive committee to state the conditions under which various funds would be expended, what would be done with incomes from various sources, and what projects should be submitted to the student body for consideration. It's just possible that such an arrangement as this may prove almost too simple, but I am inclined to think we must start there and then develop as conditions make it necessary.

I was interested in one suggestion last evening on the part of a group of women students. They seemed to think that provisions should be made in the constitution, or in the qualifications for certain officers, that they should be restricted to woman candidates. That very suggestion was an admission that while the women are in the majority here in the college, they are not sufficiently interested in themselves to use their voting power to put women candidates into the offices. I understand that at one great university in this state the vice president of the student body must always be a woman. I think if I were a woman in that institution I would object to that specific requirement. What it means is that the vice-president has little or no work to perform and no authority, and simply lives in the hope that some wonderful day something might happen to the president and the vice-president thereby inherit the glory. I doubt if our women are thinking clearly. Rather than put something in the constitution which would assure them positions on the Executive Board, they should, in my opinion, organize their votes and elect as many as they wish to that group.

Incidentally, while I am at it, I have never understood why the women needed a separate organization from the student body. I can see no reason why they should not be able to go into headquarters of the student body itself and seemed to think they gain by the organization of the A.W.S. What I really mean is that I think the women are taking a subordinate position which is not required of them. I'd like to see a

Screen Shots

By Marge Petich

Moons may wax, and moons may wane, but it seems that the Gaylor fans live on forever. It's a strange fact too, for Janet Gaylor is certainly not one of the best actresses, from the standpoint of technique, on the screen today. Suffice to say that she has that universality of appeal which has made her the second sweetheart of the screen.

In her new picture, "Carolina," she plays her typical role, and contents herself this time with standing in the shade of the magnificent Lionel Barrymore. Not given enough of a vehicle to really show his outstanding ability, Barrymore nevertheless fills his role adequately and realistically. The picture, which has had a remarkable attendance here as in other cities, closes tomorrow night at the Mission Theatre.

The story is one dealing with the declining proud glory of the South after the civil war. Lionel Barrymore plays the role of a southern gentleman, who has had a disappointing love affair in his youth. He feels that he was treated badly, and consequently becomes quite embittered toward life in general. He lives with his sister and nephew on their old plantation, dreaming over the past wonders of the pre-war days.

Janet Gaylor, a northern lass, comes south with her father and two small brothers to work a farm, but the father dies shortly after their arrival. Robert Young, Barrymore's nephew, falls prey to the sweet simplicity of Miss Gaylor, only to run amuck with his mother who sourly disapproves of such a combination. A big mess ensues, but a happy accident in Miss Gaylor's ancestry brings the story to a smiling, tearful ending.

The picture would be a trifle lame were it not for the decidedly superior acting of Lionel Barrymore. The other players were carried along by his master stage presence and characterization. Henrietta Crossman did well as the mother, and Dick Cromwell added a realistic, hay-seed touch with his poetic thoughts.

The Mission is starting a new plan of featuring big pictures in place of the double bills which have been shown at that theater recently. The manager's expectation is that big pictures will be brought to the theatre, and will be run for the period of a week to accommodate many people who otherwise would miss them. As soon as "Carolina" closes William Powell will arrive in "Fashion Follies of 1934," aided and abetted by a capable cast composed of Betty Davis, Vera Teasdale, Frank McHugh, and Hugh Herbert.

The Powell film, which is reputed to be more than passing fair, will close a week from tomorrow. And then you Garboites, you'll have your fling when Greta Garbo comes in her new film, "Queen Christina."

A PERSONALITY

Rodgers Thurber—the campus enigma, what year is he anyway? It's quite a puzzle especially since he announces that he plans to attend indefinitely. Mr. Thurber is characterized by his tendency to phone up cooling coeds and insult them by asking for dates at the last minute.

Ann Franzia is the current amount with whom he is often seen doing the up town low down. (She was at the Kappa formal with someone else plus an orchid, however.)

little more fight and a little less in the way of petitioning. Certainly under modern conditions, with full voting power and a recognition of equal capacity with the man, it should not be necessary to try to inject special privileges into a constitution. I know I am taking my life in my hands in making these remarks, but I can't help thinking it is something I should say even if it starts a discussion. I expect to be out of town for the next two weeks.
